

How can we help you?

We will work with you to benchmark your competency maturity levels.

We will do what it takes to understand your strategic business drivers and set about to devise an appropriate education road map to meet your required levels of competence.

The education can be delivered in a various ways depending on your circumstances, these are:

Training Course Facilitation: Through a combination of structured processes, exercises and case studies we align the learnings to real world experiences and competence.

Mentoring: Our skilled practitioners work directly with your staff on their project in their workplace to expedite the knowledge transfer.

Specialist Skills Development: Short focussed education sessions tailored to your requirements.

Workshop Facilitation: Our experts conduct effective, time efficient workshops to assist your staff in risk management techniques, building their work breakdown structure or possibly their whole project plan.

The final but forgotten step-

Benefits Realisation

As the final step in our education program we will conduct a return on investment study to prove whether the expected benefits of the education program were indeed met and the return out weighs your investment.

If you are using another training company to provide your education, we can conduct this study in isolation to provide you with a report to ensure you are continuously getting value for money.

We also offer value added services such as:

Tool Expansion and Development: We can assist you to get the most out of your tools used for program and project management.

Methodology Development: We can build or tailor a program and or project methodology to suit your business need

PMO Development: We will guide and mentor you in the creation of your PMO.

Competency Assessments: We provide a skills or process assessment to focus on the most pertinent learning objectives to meet your needs.

Course Development: Whether you want to develop a training course from scratch or you feel the need to improve what you already have, we can assist you.

Personal Coaching: We will work with you on your personal development and assist you to reach your goals.
